Daintree Exotic Mosaics

Daintree National Park is home to the oldest living tropical rainforest on Earth, estimated by some to be 140 million years old. Some of the rainforest inhabitants include the tree-kangaroos, the large flightless birds called cassowaries, and Boyd's forest dragons. Visitors should bring insect repellent to fight off the "Mozzies" (Australian mosquitoes).

The Bush Stone-curlew is a ground-dwelling, nocturnal bird known for eerie wailing calls at night. It gets the nickname, 'Screaming Woman Bird', from numerous calls to the police about a screaming woman.
